The Department of Statistics and Division of Biological Sciences at the University of Missouri invites applications for a joint mid-level tenured position in stochastic modeling. We are particularly interested in candidates who use Bayesian approaches to model biological problems. The successful candidate will establish a research program that complements each department’s existing strengths in statistics and biology, and builds linkages across campus with groups in the College of Agriculture, Food, and Natural Resources such as Fisheries & Wildlife or Plant Science. A Ph.D. in statistics or biostatistics is required. MU features an interdisciplinary Complexity Modeling Initiative with >64 modeling faculty representing 18 departments across campus.

We offer a highly competitive salary and start-up package, active doctoral programs with institutional support for students, and a highly interactive faculty. Columbia, Missouri is ranked among the top-ten best college towns in the U.S. We are deeply committed to ethnic, racial and gender diversity in our faculty and strongly encourage applications from women and members of groups underrepresented in mathematics and science.

Please apply online at http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic with a cover letter, current vita, statement of research and teaching interests and contact information for three references. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2012.

Columbia is a city of more than 90,000 people located in central Missouri. Kansas City and St. Louis are each about 120 miles from Columbia, less than a two hour drive on Interstate 70. Local cultural activities are numerous with a thriving live music scene, and numerous plays and concert series offered by the city, University, and Stephens and Columbia colleges. The city is connected to the state-wide hiking-biking trail network (the "Katy Trail") and the Ozark recreational area is a two to four hour drive from Columbia and provides camping, hiking, water sports and float trips.
